December 2017

Dear Friends,

Most of us have heard the phrase “knowledge is power.” The best part about knowledge is that unlike fancy toys, or money, knowledge becomes a part of who we are and transforms our world. The first pillar of our mission is to provide education because as you know—when you learn new things, you empower your ability to weigh options and improve your life in a practical way.

In 2018, GLHF is poised to expand our programming to the more than 2,000 patients in Wisconsin living with a bleeding disorder. We want members of all ages to learn and be better equipped to make good decisions and enjoy life. It took a group of caring individuals to create GLHF 43 years ago, and it takes a caring community to sustain current programs and develop new ones that remain relevant.

GLHF invests 7-10 times more than the nominal fees that we charge for our programs—an investment made possible through ongoing support from individuals like you. For that reason, we hope you will please consider a partnership with GLHF. You are giving the power of knowledge to transform the world for this group of individuals, who might otherwise face isolation and misunderstanding. Thank you for your continued support!

With warm regards,

Marlene Vidal
